You can't press the spacebar. Don't press the spacebar. Your spaceship is very small, and even the very large rocks have the habit to hit and so have a speed. Want to get rid of them? Yeah, it's easy. There is a planet south of the space, where you start. You have to shoot them. But you don't know the algorithm, and it is smarter than you are. How can you shoot a rock? Easy. You can just hold the mouse button, and the ship will shoot. Just you need to shoot in a "tetris" configuration. Puzzle games series is almost 40 games and it looks like there is no end for the series. Why don't we have more puzzle games like this? It's hard to find, and looks like it's easy to find this one. Anyway, I've only played the 50 levels on the Wii one (I know it's short), but it looks fun. I've never played the original puzzle game series. Here's the link (the wii game is below the PSP game) : - Ludum Dare 25 - Create a game in 48 hours using the theme "story". - Trying to be kinda serious. - Some people said it's a arty game. Fuck. - I don't need the top 5 to like my game, I just need the people that would play my game to like my game. - I would want everyone to like it. - I didn't use texture art to make this. - My goal was to make a game that anybody would play without copy/paste/stack an image... - The game is quite short. - The game is a story. - You are a character, in a movie, and you're trapped in a movie set. - The game has been played in all the ludumdares so far... - I could do more. - The game is a story and a puzzle... - The idea came from this classic video game with the story: - The game is a story. - The game has been played in all the ludumdares so far... - The idea came from this classic video game with

The Gigantus is a "heavily armoured" tank. It is also classified as a medium tank. In the AA department, its gun has a range of 75 meters and can fire 170 shells at a time. It also has a turret with a front of 30 meters and a rear of 5 meters. Its crew size is 4. Its armor has a top of 10 meters. It is also capable of using its front turret as a shield. Its defense is 15HP and its straight movement is 30 meters. Offensively, its main cannon can fire ballistic shells with 180 damage, but it is not as accurate as other tanks. In battle, it uses tank tactics and can deliver 'wide-field' fire. Its 'guns' are top-notch, but its accuracy is below average. WEAPONS

bySwami In the distant, misty land of Arcadia lies the city of Arialash - a place where noble heroes live out their beautiful lives. A place where vast hordes of dragons drill through the earth into the realms of the gods to the deepest caverns of the nine underworlds. A place where powerful magicians steal ships on an ocean in order to take them over the moon, and where adventurers travel to the ends of the world to slay famous dragons and save their friends from dragons. A place, in short, that inspired the creation of Pathfinder RPG - a game that defines the mid-millennium as the year the earth opened up, and flooded into the world. As a price for all of this magic and fantasy, there is always a danger that player characters could spend their whole lives just wandering around in the forests forrests and across the fields searching for the greatest treasure in the world - the legendary dungeon. But fortunately for players, the Giant Spider are more interested in gold than in slaying heroes, and, as the Bestiary proclaims, "Only monsters lust for untold gold. No one hunts monsters for money. Seek out adventure and you shall find treasure!" In order to fulfill their dreams, heroes need at least a basic understanding of the setting of Arialash; and in order to acquire this knowledge they have to deal with all sorts of monsters. The Bestiary is the ultimate resource of information about monsters found in the world of Arcadia; which all characters need to know about in order to become heroes. The Bestiary, apart from providing the most important facts about monsters - and what adventures travellers will face in Arialash - also offers rulings on combat and its capabilities. All this is laid out in a set of narrative and to-the-page encounters. Although - similar to the rules for campaign rules - the overviews and simple rules tend to be laid out in a descriptive tone, all rules can be interpreted more easily than in other parts of the Pathfinder RPG rules. We will therefore follow the 24th edition bestiary in analyzing the encounters in the bestiary, but using game-theory - as more scholarly sources have since done. The Bestiary tackles a single issue, but only in five parts: Book introduction, a 4-page introduction to character concepts and introduction to first aspect of the Bestiary. "Excerpts from the Book of Monsters...", a 7
