Utorrent is an award-winning peer-to-peer (P2P) file-sharing application for users seeking to download large files. While this client does not use an advertisement-based system to generate revenue, the developers would be more than happy to accept donations in the form of merchandising. The developers of uTorrent have stated that it is their goal to one day enable users to share and sync their content and files directly between each other. Unfortunately, these features are not yet available, but they have been working on adding these features to the uTorrent client. Speed Booster is a free utility designed to improve download speeds and overall system performance. It works by manipulating the web browsers cache, proxy settings, Windows Internet Connection Sharing settings, Windows Firewall, and other system settings. Speed Booster is designed to automatically optimize these settings to enhance your browsing experience and increase download speeds. Speed Booster also helps to eliminate frequent Web browser crashes and error messages. Deleting the "Leftovers" folders inside the temp folder for uTorrent has served as a major plus. In previous versions of the uTorrent program, the temp folder was designed to automatically be deleted when the uTorrent program finished working. Deleting the temp folder allows for more space and is necessary for clearing the clutter of any unused or leftover downloads. Likewise, the log files are worth keeping around. Unlike many other similar programs, uTorrent does not automatically clear the log files when working in the background. The program requires they be manually removed.
